Investor Brief · 2026

Slow Work Village

A small ocean-side village in Atlantic Spain, built for serious work.

16 apartments & 6 private houses on 80 hectares of Atlantic coast.
Thirty-day minimum stay.
Farm-to-table dining.
Artists in residence.
One lasting contribution per guest.

€15M raise | 40% EBITDA margin | Year-2 break-even

THE PROBLEM

Serious work needs places that no longer exist.

Cities are loud

Constant urgency, meetings, notifications, social pressure. Deep-work hours collapse to a few protected fragments.

Hotels are shallow

Built for short stays, entertainment and turnover. No food rhythm, no quiet, no real workspace, no community.

Retreats are loud-different

Workshops, cohorts, schedules, networking. Performance, not work. Optimised for short transformation, not finished output.

Founders, writers, researchers and composers describe the same need: distance, silence, time, and a quality environment to finish a serious piece of work. No category serves this directly.

WHY NOW

A growing class of senior knowledge workers can pay for focus.

€88B

Global wellness-and-retreat market, growing 10% YoY

35M+

Remote-first knowledge workers in Europe and North America

9.5M

2.4×

Growth in long-stay (30+ days) bookings on Plum Guide / Mr & Mrs Smith since 2020

Three converging shifts

- Senior remote work is normal. Founders and L7+ ICs work from anywhere; "month-on, month-off" is acceptable.
- Cities are losing the deep-work race. Even the best home office is full of family, errands and noise.
- Status moves toward output, not consumption. "What did you finish?" replaces "where did you stay?"

Atlantic-Spain advantage

- Ocean-side site in Galicia or Costa de la Luz — 80 ha of cliff and pine, mild year-round climate.
- Cost-to-build 30–40% lower than Mediterranean France/Italy for comparable land and quality.
- Two hours from Madrid — non-stop flights from London, Berlin, Zurich, NYC.
- Digital Nomad Visa (since 2023) makes 30+ day stays legal and simple.

THE ATMOSPHERE

A place where the day finds its own rhythm. Light, water, olive trees, time.

A village where serious work gets finished.

A small, autonomous village on the Atlantic coast of Spain. Apartments and private houses, each with its own entrance and serious soundproofing. A working farm, one dining house, a studio, a library. Thirty-day minimum stay. No schedule. No workshops. One curated contribution from each guest, kept for the next decade.

THE FORMULA

Five elements. Nothing else.

01

Private residences

22 apartments and houses, each with private entrance, daylight and serious sound separation.

02

Shared land

80 hectares of working farm, cliff trails, and ocean shore — open, never programmed.

03

Seasonal food

One dining house, three meals a day, ingredients grown on site or sourced within 30 km.

04

Serious work

A library, a recording studio and a small workshop. Built for finishing, not for performing.

05

One contribution

Every resident leaves one curated, lasting object behind: a bench, a piece, a chapter of the library.

"Private residences. Shared land. Seasonal food. Serious work. One lasting contribution." — the operating formula. Anything that is not one of these does not enter the village.

WHO IT IS FOR

Senior people with a serious project that cannot be finished from their normal life.

Founders, mid-stage

Post Series-A or post-exit. Designing the next company, writing a thesis, restructuring a leadership team. €300k+ income.

Senior tech ICs

L7+ engineers, principal designers, research leads. Working on a long-form system, paper, or release. €400k+ TC.

Writers & researchers

Authors with publisher advances, academic researchers on sabbatical, journalists working on long-form.

Composers & creators

Independent musicians, producers, filmmakers, artists with a defined project and a budget.

Common profile

- Age 35–65, average 45
- Annual income €250k–€2M
- Self-directed, no need for external programming
- Currently working on one defined project
- Books trips 6–18 months in advance

What they pay for

- Distance from their normal life
- Quiet, predictable rhythm
- Quality food without effort
- Peers of similar seriousness, low contact
- A finished outcome they can name

A new category. Not a hotel, not a retreat, not a coliving.

What it is not

- Not a hotel. No turnover, no concierge, no daily housekeeping ritual, no entertainment.
- Not a retreat. No workshops, no facilitators, no cohort, no transformation arc.
- Not a coliving. No shared kitchens, no common rooms, no events calendar, no party.
- Not an art residency. Residents pay; they are not selected by jury and not asked to produce.
- Not a digital-nomad hub. Not optimised for short stays or networking; designed for long, quiet work.

What it is

- A residence. Long stays. Private apartments and houses with their own entrances. A real address while you are there.
- A working farm. Food rhythm and produce drive the daily structure.
- A library and a studio. Designed for long-form work, not for performance.
- A small, slow community. Visible, optional, never compulsory.
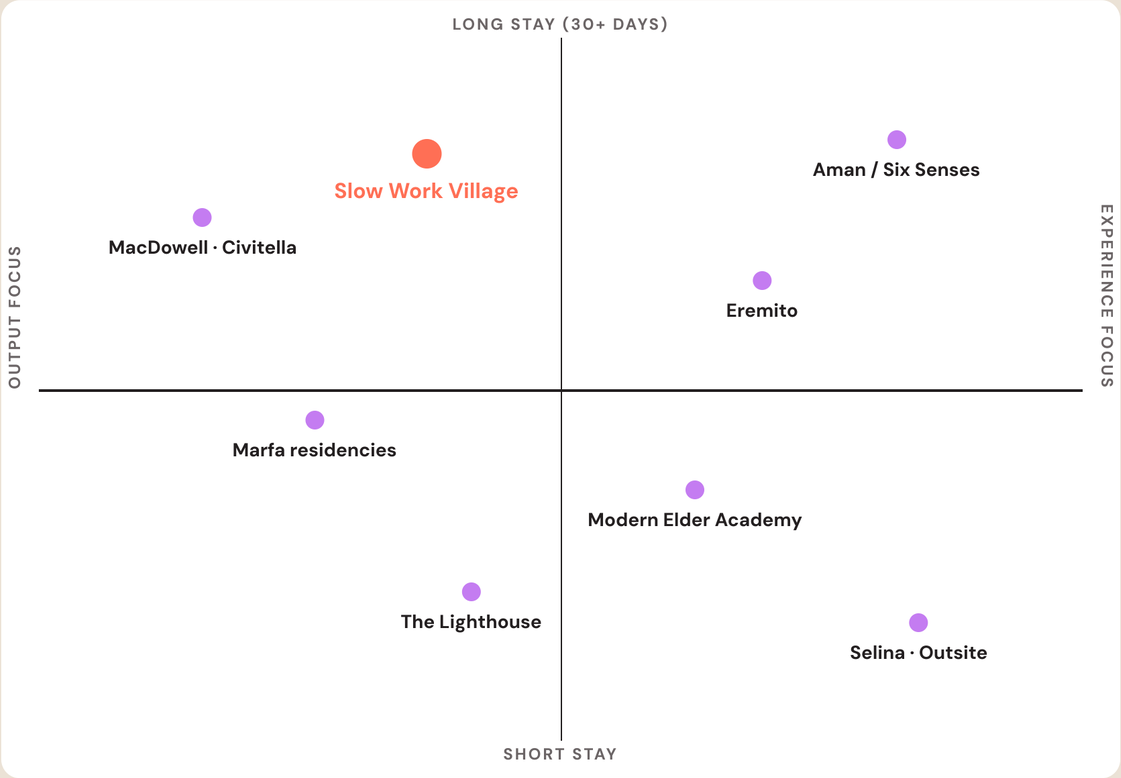
- A place that finishes things. Tracked by a public bibliography of work done on site.

The category we are building is the production residence — a place built around the work, not around the guest.

COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE

The space between art residency and luxury retreat is empty.



Direct & adjacent players

* invitation-only, philanthropic; not addressable for paying customers.

Three things no competitor combines.

01

Output is the brand

A public bibliography of every book, album, paper and company finished here. Updated yearly. The proof and the marketing in one.

02

Artists in residence

4–6 invited artists, composers and thinkers per year, hosted free. They live alongside paying residents and pull cultural status into the village.

03

A village that grows by hand

Each guest leaves one curated, lasting object. Year by year the village physically grows, made by its own residents.

Each pillar reinforces the others: artists drive press and waitlist demand, residents pay for proximity to artists and to finished outcomes, and contributions make the village irreplaceable to anyone who has stayed once.

THE ROOMS

Quiet rooms with thick walls. Linen, stone, wood, daylight.

What is built. What is not.

On the land

BUILDING	COUNT	PURPOSE
Standard apartment in 2 multi-unit residence buildings, separate entrances, heavy soundproofing	16	1 resident, 55 m², kitchenette, desk, balcony or terrace
Premium private house	6	1 resident, 90 m², standalone with garden & ocean view
Artist residence	4	Free, invited artists only
Dining house	1	3 meals/day, communal table
Library	1	2,500 books, silent reading, quiet desks
Studio	1	Recording booth, mixing room, podcast desk
Workshop	1	For resident contributions: wood, metal, fabric
Working farm	1	Vegetables, olives, eggs, herbs — covers ~60% of F&B by Y3

Operating principles

- Soundproofing first. Multi-unit residences use double-leaf masonry walls (Rw ≥ 65 dB), independent floor slabs, no shared HVAC ducts.
- Every unit has a private outdoor entrance. No interior corridors. No "hallway hotel" feel.
- Solar + battery + ground-source heat covers ~85% of energy by Y2.
- One central dinner 7 nights a week. Optional. No table assignments.
- No daily housekeeping. Cleaned on departure or by request.
- No televisions in units. One projection room in the library.

Site selection

Atlantic coast of Spain — Galicia (Costa da Morte / Rías Baixas) or western Andalucía (Costa de la Luz). ~80 ha with cliff or low-coast access, ≤ 2 hours from Madrid or Santiago. Existing finca conversion reduces capex 35–40% vs greenfield.

A small, invited residency drives every other part of the business.

How it works

- 4–6 artists per year, 4–8 weeks each.
- Stay is free. Travel and per-diem covered for first 3 years.
- Curated by an external selection group (one curator + two advisors), refreshed yearly.
- No teaching obligation. No public performance. They come to work.
- One open evening per stay — optional, low-key, residents only.
- One artwork or recording stays with the village.

What it does for the business

- Press and credibility. Each well-chosen name unlocks 2–4 long-form features per year. Worth €200–400k in equivalent paid acquisition.
- Waitlist demand. Founders book to be near the artists they admire.
- Cultural moat. Imitators with money cannot replicate a 5-year body of work made on site.
- A growing collection. Year by year the village owns a small but real cultural archive.

Cost model: ~€40k per resident artist (food, fees, travel) × 5 = €200k/year. Funded directly from operating margin. Zero dependency on grants.

RESIDENT CONTRIBUTION

Each guest leaves one lasting object. Curated, not optional, not free-form.

How it is bounded

One contribution per stay. Reviewed by the Site Director. ~80% of proposals are rejected or reshaped. Must serve a 10-year horizon.

What counts

A bench, a garden bed, a sound piece, a tool, a software tool, a chapter of the library, a section of trail, a piece of furniture.

What it produces

A village that visibly grows by hand. A return loop: every resident has reason to come back. Belonging, not consumption.

The flywheel

Guest stays
30–90 day residency, finishes serious work.

→

Leaves a contribution
One curated object becomes part of the village.

Becomes co-author
Returns 1–2× per year. Brings peers.

→

Village deepens
Each year, more reasons to visit and to refer.

THE EXPERIENCE

Considered, never staged. Beauty in the materials, not in the brochure.

FIRST-100-GUEST PLAN

How the waitlist is full before the village opens.

PHASE 1 · M0–M6

Seed network

— Founders' personal network: 200 hand-written invitations to senior peers

— 10 founder-circle dinners in London, Berlin, NYC, Lisbon

— Long-form essay series on slow work, distributed via guest authors

Target: 250 names on waitlist.

PHASE 2 · M6–M12

Cultural anchors

— Announce Year-1 artist cohort (4 names) 9 months ahead

— Each artist brings 1 long-form profile in target media

— Curated film + sound piece released from artist visits

— Founders' essays placed in The Atlantic, Aeon, Wired UK

Target: 750 waitlist, 80 application requests.

PHASE 3 · M12–M18

Soft open: 12 units

— Open application: select first 60 residents from waitlist

— Founder-friends & cultural advisors stay first, write public reflections

— Yearly bibliography goes live, updated monthly

— Press tour: 2 anchor profiles in FT, Monocle, Sifted, NYT Travel

Target: 12 units at 55% occupancy.

PHASE 4 · M18–M30

Full open · 22 units

— Word-of-mouth becomes primary channel (referrals 60%)

— Returning-resident program launches

— "Friends of the village" 12-month booking window

— Year-2 bibliography (~30 finished works) drives next cohort

Target: 22 units at 72% occupancy, year-2 break-even.

CHANNELS

Founder network, artist PR, long-form essays, owned media (bibliography), referral.

NO PAID ADS

Paid media is an anti-signal for ICP. All acquisition is editorial, network or referral.

APPLICATION GATE

Every booking is a 5-question application. Filters tourists out and signals seriousness.

CAC TARGET

~€450 per booked guest-month — fully editorial / referral driven.

ROADMAP

30 months from close to full open.

PHASE	MONTHS	MILESTONES	CUMULATIVE SPEND
0 · Close & site	M0 – M3	Investment closed. Coastal site purchased. Architectural team signed.	€4.5M
1 · Permits & pre-build	M3 – M9	Tourist + long-stay licence secured. Master plan approved. Waitlist opens publicly.	€5.5M
2 · Construction phase A	M9 – M18	Residence building A (12 apartments) + dining + library + farm online. Site Director hired. First artist cohort lands.	€10.5M
3 · Soft launch	M15 – M21	First 60 paying residents. Bibliography v1 published. Anchor press features.	€12.5M
4 · Construction phase B	M18 – M27	Residence building B (4 apartments) + 6 standalone houses + studio + workshop + 4 artist residences online.	€14.5M
5 · Full open	M27 – M30	22 paying units operating. Year-2 break-even on track. Waitlist 18 months out.	€15.0M

Critical path

Coastal permits and licences. Begun pre-close to compress timeline by 4–6 months.

Risk-reduction

Existing finca with prior touristic use chosen specifically to reduce permitting risk by 60% vs greenfield.

Early revenue

First paying residents 15 months after close. €595k revenue in Year 1 from soft launch.

THE DETAIL

Brass, stone, plaster, time. Nothing that needs replacing.

Where this can fail. What we have already done about it.

RISK	SEVERITY	MITIGATION
Occupancy below 70% Long-stay model is sensitive to occupancy.	High	18-month pre-launch waitlist (~750 names). Application gate. Tiered pricing absorbs demand swings. Year-1 plan only loads 12 of 22 units.
Permitting delays Spanish coastal permits add complexity.	High	Existing finca with prior touristic use (rural-tourism licence already in place) and outside the 100m maritime-public-domain strip. Local counsel engaged 6 months pre-close.
Coastal weather Atlantic storms in winter, salt corrosion.	Medium	Marine-grade materials. Set back from cliff edge by 80m+. Heated indoor work spaces all winter. Off-peak winter pricing built into model.
Brand misread as luxury hotel If positioned wrong, ICP rejects it.	Medium	Application gate. Output-led brand (bibliography). No "concierge" language. No paid ads. Editorial-only PR.
Single-site concentration All capex in one location.	Medium	Insurance, conservative debt ratio (33% LTV). Plan for second site only after Year 5 with proven cash flow.
Operator quality Long-stay hospitality is a skilled craft.	Mitigated	Site Director hired from Aman/Six Senses long-stay alumni network in Year 1. Hospitality lead with 10+ years sustained-stay experience.

Who we are. Who we are hiring next.

Founder & operator

Lead — to be filled.
Prior operating role in hospitality, technology or media. Lives on site through Year 3.

Site Director

Hired Year 1. Background: long-stay boutique hospitality (Aman, Six Senses, Eremito alumni network). Curates contributions.

Head of Hospitality

Hired Year 1. Background: 10+ years in independent boutique sustained-stay. Owns guest experience & F&B rhythm.

Architectural lead

Iberian practice with experience in heavy-mass coastal construction and acoustic isolation in multi-unit residences.

Curator (artist program)

External, non-executive. Selects 4–6 artists per year. Refreshed yearly to avoid taste lock-in.

Brand & editorial

Owns waitlist, bibliography, press. Background in editorial publishing (Monocle / Frame / Aeon circle).

Advisory board (in formation)

One former Aman executive · one published author or composer · one boutique-hospitality operator with finca experience · one Spanish coastal-permits counsel.

VISION

A small village by the ocean. A growing bibliography. Work that lasts.

In ten years, Slow Work Village is the place a serious person goes to finish the thing only they can finish. The bibliography reads like a small canon. The village itself is built, in part, by the people who lived there. The category we are creating did not exist when we started.
